About me

My background in accounting and finance has been a great preface for my journey as a web developer. I studied International Finance and Spanish at Westminster College, while also spending a semester in Spain improving my language skills. I have had multiple roles over the past few years including staff accountant at The Free Library of Philadelphia and the sole accountant at The Kingsley Association, a non-profit in Pittsburgh. I've developed unique problem solving skills in an often high stress environment, while still producing quality work.

Even though accounting has given me some great opportunities, I wanted to do something more creative and rewarding with my time. Web development has given me the opportunity to combine hobby with work. I have always enjoyed building new things. Creating art in many different mediums is one of my favorite hobbies.

I am currently seeking an exciting company to contribute to. I am excited to continue learning and push myself towards becoming a well rounded Full Stack Developer.
